Lookin' Around with 'Mac'

My generation, in grade school during World War I and carrying weightier responsibilities in the Second War, was nurtured on the belief that strife could be outlawed among nations if the people of the world really knew and understood each other. I can remember my adolescent enthusiasm over the League of Nations, my revolt against the "munitions makers," my disillusionment when arbitration and diplomacy were smashed before the power of the dictators.

In 30 years the world has come a long way, through encouragement of student exchanges and international swapping of ideas, toward a more universal understanding. Until the rise of Hitler we were making progress in the light of Woodrow Wilson's idealism. It is probable our economic effort in Europe today will go down in history as the greatest humanitarian achievement since the rise of Christianity. And it is being accomplished because we realize that nations are interdependent, that people of all races must either be friendly and cooperative or face self-annihilation. The isolationist is gone forever; this is the day of the supersalesman, radiating confidence, good-will and optimism.

I have been reading old history revitalized: the troubles of our founding fathers in drawing up our Constitution. In the dozen years between the Declaration of Independence and the first Constitutional Convention the most active controversy hinged on states rights. Each unit of the newly united states wished to reserve major jurisdiction to itself. Even though the draftsmen of the constitution did a masterful job of compromising those differences through conferences of delegates, the states' rights issue was not completely settled until after the Civil War.

History teaches that men tend to put up barriers and boundaries around themselves, to alienate all things beyond their narrow horizons. The more primitive the people, the more confined is their domain.

A hundred years ago California was a sprawling wilderness into which men were poured from all parts of the world. Almost overnight a new commonwealth was born; California did not have to serve a long apprenticeship as a territory before she received full status of statehood. Then followed the creation of mammoth counties and their subdivision to serve the governmental needs of the people. In that rapid cleavage there were many disputes. It is well known that many county boundaries were set by temporary economic factors, political pulling and hauling, confusion, name-calling and breast-beating.

It took a long time for California to grow up, to accept leaders of vision who could weld together differences of people, climate, economy, and geography to

ARMED THIEVES CAPTURED BY LOCAL SHERIFF

Men Caught Only 30 Minutes After Crime

Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins captured two auto thieves only 30 minutes after the crime occurred Wednesday afternoon.

The men, Norman D. Redmer, 26, parolee from San Quentin and Emory Lewis Allen, 26, also an ex-convict, according to Hoskins, had clouted the car from in front of the Reno, Nev., city engineering department and headed for California.

Hoskins had been at Floriston, and pulled into the quarantine station two minutes behind the stolen vehicle. One of the inspectors told the sheriff he believed the car was one they had just received information on from Reno.

Sheriff Hoskins noticed the vehicle was carrying a Reno city license and questioned the men. He detained them, notified the Reno police and held the men until the Reno officers arrived.

Hoskins said Redmer had a .32 revolver in his coat pocket but made no effort to use it.

Reno police said the men probably will be prosecuted under the Dyer act, transporting a stolen vehicle across a state line.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES UP FOR ELECTION MAY 19

E. W. Kendrick, who has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election this year, is the only local school district trustee whose term expires this year, according to announcement by Walter A. Carlson, county superintendent of schools.

C. F. SHAMBERGER HOME DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire early Wednesday morning destroyed the home and most of the personal belongings of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Shamberger, east of Nevada City.

The house, formerly the old county farm, across the road from the county hospital, was a total loss. It is insured for $3,500. Furniture is insured for $2,500.

Firemen of the state division of forestry and the Nevada City fire department saved some of the personal and household belongings, including 300 pounds of meat from a deep-freezer.

The fire, believed to have been started by defective wiring, began about 7 o'clock.

HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Scheemer have returned from a three week trip to Arizona, Mexico and lower California.

TODAY'S THE DAY BUT TOMORROW'S THE NIGHT

Kind of a silly head, isn't it, but it's the truth. Today is that day of the year when all the true sons of the ould sod are wearin' o' the green, but the Nevada City Elks Lodge will celebrate St. Patrick's day tomorrow night.

Curtis Clark is preparing his famed lobster dinner scheduled to get underway at 7:30.

Dancing, of course, a favorite pastime of the Irish, will follow. Jerry Austin and his Blarney Stone Shamrocks will provide the music for the jigs and reels, and for a variety show to precede the ball.

COMMITTEE WILL WORK ON PLANS FOR HIGHWAY 20

Will Urge State To Appropriate

Nevada county was well represented at a meeting held in Marysville Thursday evening for the purpose of promoting interest in the improvement of highway 20 from Marysville to Nevada City.

I. C. Bell, vice president of the Nevada City chamber of commerce, opened the discussion following dinner by outlining the need of improvement on the route, stating that he had been informed by engineers of the state highway department that this pavement was at least ten years behind the current trend of improvements. He added that Nevada county had received little or no state money for highway improvement during the past few years.

Discussion following Bell's remarks resulted in the appointment of a committee in which representatives of six counties would make arrangements for a meeting with Governor Earl Warren and Director of Public Works C. H. Purcell.

County Supervisor Carl Tobiassen of Nevada City was appointed to represent Nevada county on the working committee. Antoine Pezzola of Downieville will represent Sierra county and H. O. Williams was named for Plumas county. Other committeemen will be announced later. The committee will hold its first meeting Thursday at the Marysville chamber of commerce office.

Frank Delaney, secretary of the Sierra county chamber of commerce, said that over 1,500 children come each summer from the Sutter basin area to camps located in Sierra county. He pointed out that the increasing traffic of buses to and from the mountain recreation area endangered the lives of children on the present poor highways. He pointed out that the committee could well press the state highway commission for construction monies on the single issue of protection to children alone. "Unless we improve highway 20 we will bear part of the responsibility for the inevitable crash which will kill some of these children," the speaker said.

Nevada City men who attended the meeting in addition to Bell were Herbert J. Nile, Ray Spickelmier, president of the local chamber; H. F. Sofge, chamber secretary; and Carl J. Tobiassen. Ed Kohler, president of the North San Juan, Camptonville and Vicinity chamber, spoke briefly on behalf of better roads.

Grass Valley men who attended included Roy Brown, Archie Brooks, John A. Brown, William Stinson and Garrett Brown.

Counties represented in the move to petition the state for highway 20 appropriations include Nevada, Sierra, Plumas, Butte, Sutter and Yuba.

YOUTH ARRESTED

A 16-year-old Grass Valley boy is in city jail on charge of pilfering automobiles in lot between theatre and Purity store Tuesday night. Robert Graham reported loss of grease gun, five gallons of gasoline and some oil taken from his pickup parked in the area. The youth was picked up in Grass Valley following an all-points bulletin release.

NO CHANGE IN FOOTBALL FOR YELLOWJACKETS

Board Hears Views On Athletics

Football will remain a scheduled competitive sport at Nevada City high school and the Yellowjackets will continue in the Sierra Foothill league, the Nevada City unified board of trustees decided at its monthly meeting Monday night.

An informal remark by Trustee John Larue suggesting discussion of a proposal to abandon interscholastic football at the February meeting precipitated strong support for the popular sport. Larue pointed out that he did not necessarily endorse abandonment but said that he had received protests from some parents who feared injury or undue strain to players in the small male student body.

Coach Douglas Watt said that no serious injury to a player had resulted from a league game but that there had been a few injuries in practice. Some schools the Yellowjackets meet in competition may have larger squads, he said, but seldom use more than 15 players through a game. On the other hand, he added, schools smaller than Nevada City have beaten the local team. He said it was his policy not to leave a boy in the game when he became exhausted and that the physical condition of the players was his primary concern.

Principal Ed Frantz said that no league of smaller high schools would welcome Nevada City because of transportation difficulties. He added that the present high school enrollment is 225 and that it would be over 300 within four years if local economic conditions remained unchanged.

On Frantz's recommendation that football be continued without change, the board concurred unanimously.

Band Uniforms Ordered

On assurance of the principal that the high school band would accept the responsibility of raising approximately $400 within the next few weeks, the board voted an expenditure of $499.50 for band uniforms. The total cost of uniforming the entire band with capes and caps is approximately $1400, Frantz said, of which the student body has already appropriated $500. Recognizing the need for immediate action in order to have delivery for spring use, the board voted an amount less than $500 in order to avoid legal advertising for bids.

An additional night school class in upholstery was authorized by the board. The principal was authorized to accept an offer for sale of an old bus now classified as junk. There was a brief discussion of Saturday night rental of the gymnasium for a Masonic program and for a series of teen-age dances to be sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce.

Al Woods, shop teacher, explained methods of charging students for materials used in the manual training classes. Dr. B. W. Hummelt, board chairman, asked him to bring additional data to the April meeting for a study but emphasized that the methods employed did not constitute critcism or an audit.

A school official blanket bond covering $2,500 per person was purchased from Reita D. Curnow agency, represented by Stanley Halls.

Board Clerk Miles D. Coughlin was authorized to publish the notice of school trustee election to be held May 19.

It was announced that a threatened epidemic of scarlet fever in the elementary school has abated and that only one pupil is now absent with illness.

Principal Lloyd Geist said the PTA had donated $75 for the purchase of an AM-FM radio receiver to be used in audio-visual education work. He was directed to study the market and report his recommendations of the type of set desired. Geist added that he had discussed cooperation with School Superintendent Walter A. Carlson in building an audio-vis-

HILL CLIMBING FIRE TRUCK TESTED SUNDAY

Members of the Nevada City Fire Department enjoyed themselves giving a FWD fire truck a thorough testing Sunday. The truck was brought here by the manufacturers to demonstrate its adaptability to the hills of the city. If the voters of the city approve the $25,000 bond issue in April $15,000 of the bonds will pay for the truck.

The Miners Foundry permitted use of two tons of their iron castings, the water tank was filled with a ton of water and 20 firemen clung to the sides as the engine roared up some of Nevada City's "worser" hills.

HARMONY NOTE IS OBSERVED AT FREEWAY MEET

Little Opposition to Four-Lane Freeway

Harmonious cooperation was the keynote when the cities of Nevada City and Grass Valley gathered in Grass Valley Wednesday night when representatives of the highway department, business and civic leaders and city and county officials gathered to discuss a proposed $4,000,000 four-lane freeway between Nevada City and Grass Valley.

The project received almost unanimous endorsement of the individuals attending.

The route proposed by engineers of the state division of highways is designed to relieve a traffic bottleneck caused by the narrow twisting road now connecting the two cities. Traffic counts on the four-mile stretch show that between 5,000 and 8,000 cars traverse the route each day.

Representatives of the highway department taking part in the discussion were J. P. Murphy and H. F. Sherwood, assistant district engineers, and Gilbert Mulcahy, district right of way agent.

In a vote on the proposal only a small group of motor court operators on the present highway objected.

Leading proponents of the new route were Mayor Gilbert Cramer, Grass Valley; I. C. Bell, member of Nevada City planning commission; W. W. Esterly, business and civic leader of Grass Valley; and Frank Rowe, Grass Valley, county supervisor.

The proposed route would follow the present course of Wolf creek through Grass Valley and miss the business section. The route would also by-pass Hills Flat section and follow a straight course through Gold Flat and into Nevada City where it also would miss the business section.

The proposed route will fit the comprehensive plans for highway 49 from Auburn to Downieville via Grass Valley and Nevada City, and future plans for highway 20 from Marysville via the two cities and connecting to highway 40 near Emigrant Gap.

William Stinson, Grass Valley, presided.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE ON STATE-WIDE TELETYPE

First all-points bulletin of the attorney general's teletype circuit in Nevada county was received Tuesday morning over the new unit installed in the office of Nevada County Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins.

The machine was installed under state legislation through efforts of the local office, Hoskins said. The state installed the equipment and will provide annually $3,000 for operation and maintenance.

PUBLICITY KEY TO PROMOTION MILLS DECLARES

Publicize Any and All Opportunities

Publicizing any and all angles of a community or area are the cornerstones of promotion, declared Carl T. Mills, secretary-manager of the Calaveras County Jumping Frog Jubilee of Angels Camp, before 90 members and guests of the junior and senior Chambers of Commerce of Nevada City at the National hotel Tuesday.

Joint installation of officers of the two organizations were conducted by Judge George W. Gildersleeve featured the business part of the dinner meeting.

Other officers installed by the local justice of the peace were I. C. Bell, vice president; H. F. Sofge, secretary-treasurer; Milt Anderson, W. C. Briggs, Merrill Colvin, O. J. Melton, William Novak and Ken Wray, directors.

Marvin E. Haddy, service station operator, was installed president of the yocnger organization. Other officers of the junior group installed were William Tobiassen, vice president; Robert Bonner, secretary; Richard Pease, treasurer; Al Lindsey, George Halstead, Clement Henwood, Hobart Childers and William Tamblyn.

Bell outlined the senior chamber's projects for the year and stressed roads are the No. 1 item on the list.

Mills gave an interesting and well delivered talk before the two groups and put across his point on publicity being the keynote of promotion by recounting his experiences in 23 Jumping Frog Jubilees, a celebration that last year drew 30,000 persons to the hot, dusty foothill community of 1,200.

Mills related the Jumping Frog Jubilee has spread the name of Calaveras to the ends of the earth. The word frog has been exploited by the community to the point of becoming synonimous.

Mills revealed the jumping frog contest was the result of inquiries from the metropolitan press and at the time of the inception of the jubilee in 1926 no plans for a frog contest were contemplated.

Each year a successful publicity gimmick is used and with correct timing succeeds in promoting the celebration.

Mills said the publicity program of the celebration has won the distinction of being the best publicized affair in seven western states and has been barred from further competition for the publicity prize awarded by the Western Fairs association.

Mills said the jubilee operated on the publicity principle of being talked about, regardless of whether it was good or bad.

"Anytime you acquaint a large number of people with your community you are bound to get a percentage of them back as residents," Mills said. "In 1948, Calaveras county showed the highest percentage of population increase of any California county. I lay a lot of that to the Jumping Frog Jubilee."

BIBLE COMMENT

FOR MARCH 19

Word of God Is Christianity's Motive Power

THE rapid and remarkable growth of early Christianity is summed up in the brief, concentrated statement in Acts 19:20, "Mightily grew the word of the Lord, and prevailed."

There is the secret of the motive power of early Christianity, and for that matter of Christianity ever since, wherever and whenever it has displayed phenomenal effectiveness and growth.

These early Christians were responsive to the word of God. A Psalmist, many years earlier, had written, "Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against Thee:" For these devout Christians, deeply responsive to their Scriptures, the word of God had become incarnated in the word of a living Christ, whom some of them had known, with whom they had walked and talked, and with whom they had sat on a mountain slope, as He revealed the good news of the Gospel and the mysteries of the Kingdom of God.

The word of the Lord was for them a word of enlightenment. In Paul's conversion "there fell from his eyes as it had been scales," and a typical experience of those who came in contact with Jesus, and listened responsively to His words, was, "We never saw it on this fashion" (Mark 2:12). It was a word of enlightenment.

The word of the Lord was for them a word of life—a word of new life. Paul described the experience in crisp words of fact, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (II Corinthians 5:17). And the effect of that expression "in Christ," was as much as to say in whatever place one lived. Christ was their environment, their atmosphere, the place where they lived.

Has it not always been so when men and women have taken their Master seriously, and have really lived the Christian life that they have professed? Vital Christianity is the world's supreme need. But, alas! much of our professed Christianity is only conventional and formal, untouched by the true spirit of Christ.

Federal Property Inventory Needed

The other day I appeared before the appropriations committee in an effort to get funds for an accurate inventory of federal real property. This inventory is necessary to favorable action on the legislation pending to provide an in-lieu tax program compensating local governments for their losses in tax revenues due to federal ownership.

In most counties in my district, the federal government owns over 50 percent of the real property, and in two over 90 percent. We have had legislation pending to provide compensation for lost taxes to local governments for a long time, but have been stalemated by the fact that we could not tell congress how much real property the government actually owns, and therefore could not make accurate estimates of what our in-lieu tax proposal would cost. Efforts to get this information have been unavailing. However the federal government did have an inventory up to 1940. I am asking the appropriations committee for sufficient funds—$70,000—to bring this inventory up to date. When we have the information disclosed by the inventory, we will not only be able to tell what real property the federal government has, but how much it will cost to make some proper adjustment with the local governments due to the tax loss they suffer.

No prudent businessman would think of operating his affairs without an inventory of his assets. It is hard to believe that there is not one single place in the federal government where the total real property ownership of the federal government can be ascertained. Even if this inventory was not necessary to this very beneficial and justified legislation, it is no more than common sense to have it anyway.

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement set forth in said Measure (B) (Fire Protection System) is the sum of $25,000, and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $25,000.

THE FIRST HUNDRED YEARS ARE THE HARDEST

This week Nevada completes its one-hundredth year. The most exacting historians have not been able to say on just what day the city was born but all agree that an assembly of miners elected a Mr. Stamps as their alcalde under Mexican law in March, 1850. In a heated discussion which followed, the miners selected the name Nevada by ballot.

"The City of Nevada" was incorporated a year later. Although the Washoe country to the east was being settled about the same time, the territory of Nevada was not admitted to the Union until Oct. 31, 1864. That gave our county more than 14 years head start on the use of the name.

Compared with hundreds of other communities in the state, Nevada City is an old town. It remained vital and immensely prosperous through generations when other mining towns boomed and faded away. Its citizens in the formative years were earthy, robust and vigorous; they tackled and overcame the impossible time and again. It produsedmore than its share of great leaders and outstanding patriots Through ten decades the city built a tradition in which we may honestly take pride.

As the first century comes to a close we may ask ourselves what lies ahead for the next century? Since a city owes its existence to the basic economy on which it feeds, we are concerned with "our daily bread."

There has been gold in these hills for a century and it is reasonable to assume that a great deal of yellow metal still lies undisturbed. But until we return to a free market for gold, we are kidding ourselves in calling Nevada City a mining town. In order to progress, expand, and grow, we must look to other means of livelihood.

Recreation is one answer. Modern demands for outdoor leisure activity represent big business. Hotels, service stations, garages, sporting goods stores, and dozens of other service industries benefit directly from sportsmen's spending. We have the physical environment, unmatched by any other area in the west, for fishing and resort development. But to reach into this great untapped resource we must have good roads coupled with aggressive imagination. It is heartening to learn that the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce program for the year places roads at the top of the list. The newly installed chamber leaders are men of capacity and imagination and they are working in the right direction.

What resources remain in lumbering and light industry only men of vision and ingenuity can guess. Our delightful climate, our historic landmarks and traditions, and our friendly spirit of welcome and good fellowship are important assets in encouraging residence here of creative artists. Writers, artists and others who poduce independently can bring new wealth to the community.

What will we do with the century that lies ahead?—jwm.

PERSONALITIES

Carl J. Tobiassen, the local supervisor, has accepted our invitation to publish his statement, which appears in another column of this newspaper.

Mr. Tobiassen is entitled to his interpretation of our editorial of last week. We retract none of it beyond admitting being in error regarding his action anent the Nevada County Bar Association. Crofford Bridges informed us Saturday morning Carl Tobiassen was not a member of the board of supervisors at the time the statement was directed at him. Bridges went on to state that last fall Tobiassen approached him and asked when he would again present the petition for payment of court-appointed public defenders, and declared that Tobiassen said he was in favor of such payment.

The Nugget believes in fair play and the validity of the free press. The character of the supervisor was not under attack, nor were members of his family. We believe that public airing of personal animosities and prejudices will not serve the community. Having printed the supervisor's side of the story without rebuttal, we are willing to leave the final decision as to Tobiassen's public service or incompentency in the hands of the voters who placed him in office.—kww.

Literary commercialism is lowering the intellectual standard to accommodate the purse and to meet a frivolous demand for amusement instead of for improvement. Incorrect views lower the standard of truth.—Eddy.

Silver Lining

CARL TOBIASSEN GIVES ANSWER TO EDITORIAL

The following article is a letter presented to The Nugget by Carl J. Tobiassen, at the invitation of J. Wilson McKenney, partner with Ken Wray of The Nugget:

Regarding editorial entitled "Recall of Carl J. Tobiassen" Mr. Wray why don't you practice what you preach?

You have made me the target of several attacks in your editorial column on my record as Supervisor based principally on your contention that I do not use "considered judgment.

You came before the Board of Supervisors as you have stated pointing out the fact that we were in error by not publishing the proceeding of the meetings. In my opinion your delivery was poor, your attitude was arrogant, and I daresay chesty and made a poor impression. You were not present when I am supposed to have made certain foul statements to the effect that "I was going to do something about it, etc.

That challenge was directed at one of your brothers. and not at you. We have laws and courts to settle disputes concerning Libel and Slander and it is certainly within my rights to consult an attorney for advise on such matters. I certainly did not make any threats of violence as you so stated.

I am economy minded and do not like to place too many burdens on the taxpayer. In that particular case you were merely "carrying the ball for your brother."

You charge me with being prejudiced against the Nev. Co. Bar Ass'n. and namely Mr. Crofford Bridges in not granting their request for payment of court appointed attorneys. "Wrong again." The matter has never came before the board during my encumbancy.

During twelve years of holding the office of Sheriff and handling hundreds of civil and criminal actions, I can truthfully say that I have never had a disagreement on any occassion with any practicing attorney in this county or elsewhere and I firmly believe that I can claim each and everyone of them as a friend. In the case of Crofford Bridges I can say that our friendship has been mutual and of a pleasant nature.

You further stated that you believe that the recall will fail, yet in the same breath you state that you are going to strive to the utmost to aid in its accomplishment. Would you try to tell me that that is consistent and in the interest of good judgment. Space does not permit me to go any further.

I contend that you have repeatedly misquoted the facts as your so-called statements that purportedly I have made are in error and you have not used "considered judgment in most cases."

Proceed with your recall whelped in spite and nurtured in hate, Mr. Wray. I stand ready to meet the challenge of any charges trumped up flimsy as they may be.

CARL J. TOBIASSEN.

Wins Spelling Bee

It was announced that David Haley had won the annual McClatchy spelling bee after a contest lasting 110 minutes Monday. He will represent the local school in the semi-finals.

The board meeting was held in a room in which two newly installed eight-foot fluorescent lights illustrated the improvement in lighting. The principal said that funds were available to proceed with similar installations in a few more rooms and said that meter readings had indicated extreme need for better lighting in six rooms. There was also a brief discussion of window breakage and methods to shield glass from flying balls. Geist said 13 panes were replaced last month, mostly caused by snow masses falling from eaves. The board approved installation of pipe and a drinking fountain in one of the play yards at the elementary school.

J. F. O'CONNOR ASKS NINTH TERM IN OFFICE

A few years back the federal government had a candidate who ran for office again and again and again.

Nevada county has a candidate who has filed for his ninth consecutive term. J. F. O'Connor filed Monday afternoon for the post of county surveyor—a position he has held since 1918.

O'Connor was appointed deputy surveyor in 1915 and is the oldest elective officer of Nevada county in years of service.

O'Connor, who also holds the appointment of Nevada county road commissioner, was born and raised in the county. He is a licensed engineer and mineral surveyor.

O'Connor is affiliated with the Grass Valley Lions club, Elks lodge, and chamber of commerce.

CLAY INDUSTRY FILMS SHOWN HYDRAULICKERS

Kodachrome motion pictures of clay industry and the manufacture of fire brick, brick and ceramics at Pittsburgh, Pa., kilns were shown to a crowded gathering of the California Hydraulic Mining association Sunday at the Hotel Colfax in Colfax.

A Lincoln pottery firm presented the film. Roy J. Nielson of the California division of mines projected an 18-minute colored film on a centennial theme.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder at the gossips art
And at his tricks of speech,
I Wonder just how far the tales
He tells today will reach.
I Wonder if they'll blast a soul
With a swift searing flame,
I Wonder if they'll break a heart
Or smirch an honored name.

I do wonder at the gossip's art, for gossiping has an art; it lies within the lines of a well established technique and seldom deviates from a well defined form. The gossip reigns best over a small group of his fellows and the weird tales he has to tell is usually preceded with the query, "Have you heard?" These three words should be uttered in a hoarse stage whisper, they serve to focus attention upon the gossiper and so, the tale begins.

Mark Anthony had to plead "for the lend" of his countrymen's ears, the gossiper who has a juicy tale to tell, has only to say, "Have you heard?" and lo, all ears are his.

The speech of those who listen as the gossiper proceeds, seems to follow an old and well established form; you hear such interpolations as, "for pity's sake"—though what influence pity can have where the scandalmongers are gathered together is something I have never been able to ascertain. "Oh, my, my!" is a favorite interjection; others equally familiar are, "how perfectly awful," "I'm not surprised," "do tell," etc.

There was in England some years ago, a woman who became known as the woman with the serpent's tongue; Perfection in the gossip's art is her only claim to fame; I think her name was Margo something or other, but what does it matter? Her serpent's tongue murdered reputations and her attacks were limited only by the time at her disposal. "The woman with a serpent's tongue!" I hope that none of us will qualify for such an ignominious title—I do indeed.

When we come across a choice bit of scandal, when we are tempted to purvey it, let us pause long enough to ask of our inmost soul, "Is it true? Will it do any good if repeated? Will it injure any possiblv innocent person?" The inveterate purveyor of gossip would tuck this little verse away in memory and bring it to the surface of his mentality whenever tempted to let go and tell all.

"Boys flying kites, haul in the white winged birds,
You can't do that way when you're flying words;
Thoughts unexpressed may sometimes fall dead
But God himself can't kill them once they're said."

Gossip is a two-edged sword; it wounds the one against whom it is employed but just as surely it leaves its scars upon the mind and the heart of him who uses it. It ruins the fair reputations of both the victim and gossip and it serves only to obscure the thinking of the gossip and those who lend him their ears. It is quite awful to be the victim of a gossip's art, it is more awful to be a gossip.

The gossip is usually a cowardly person; he is not willing to stand squarely behind his tales of woe, he hides behind a smoke screen of "they say."

Who are "they"? Some one once said that "they" are liars. At least, they seldom come out into the open and speak for themselves, they just form a backdrop for the scandalmonger. We may well discount the tales that come from "they," we may well turn our thoughts to something of far more value than the tales spread about by the gossip.

ADELINE MERRIAM CONNER.

YELLOWJACKETS NO-HIT VICTIM IN OPENING GAME

The 1950 Yellowjacket baseball team looked good in its first contest of the year, according to observers of the game played Tuesday with McClatchy high school in Sacramento.

The Yellowjackets had the misfortune of facing Carl Christin, who had a no-hit pitching game to his credit and promptly duplicated the stunt against the Nevada City boys. Two Yellowjackets reached base, both on walks.

Dick Penrose, hurling for the Yellowjackets, allowed five hits, but the Lions got them together to score nine runs.

Ed Frantz, coach of the squad, said the boys looked good even though defeated, and he believes the Yellowjackets will be contenders for the Sierra Foothill league bunting.

Best way to spruce up a telephone is with a soft, dry cloth... never with water, or any other liquid.

HOW TO TREAT YOUR TELEPHONE

Suggestions to help protect your service

1. A twisted cord can lead to trouble. Although the wires are especially designed for flexibility, too many twists and kinks may eventually break them and interfere with service until a repairman can call. Good idea to get the curls out by letting the receiver dangle and unwind by itself . . . then keep them out by remembering, each time you call, not to put turns in the cord as you handle the receiver.

2. It's built to take it . . . but your telephone can develop ailments if it's dropped. So make sure the stand it sits on is solid and is in a spot where it won't be accidentally bumped. Other ways to help protect service: Avoid "gadget" attachments for your telephone . . . keep cords clear of doorways where they may be pinched . . . and always keep water away from wires and fittings.

3. Did you ever stop to think that your telephone is one service or piece of equipment in your home that's repaired and maintained for life at no extra cost to you? This maintenance is one of the values included in the rates you pay for service . . . rates that make it one of your really good buys today.

MEET YOUR NEIGHBOR

By Clayre S. Lipman

MARGARET BANKUS MLINARICH

When Peggy Mlinarich's own family gets together, there's really a crowd . . . ! When they convened at Peggy's home to toast Granddaddy Lloyd M. Bankus on his 97th birthday, 48 descendants said, "Happy Birthday to You!" And that was just a handful of his kin . . . there are over 100 in California alone, and some three hundred more scattered about in the Middle West, all offspring of the fourteen children he raised himself!

Peggy and the other kids love to have Great-Great-Granddaddy tell about his days on a Missouri farm, about Jesse James and other rough, tough characters he knew out in the wild Oklahoma Territory . . . has a remarkable memory and often straightens sons and daughters on dates they've forgotten!

John Bankus, Peggy's father, built the first cement silo in Idaho before coming to Nevada City . . . and her daughter, Josephine Bock, has two sturdy sons . . . so when Lloyd bounces them on his knee, he's looking down at five generations . . .

Peggy, of course, is that friendly lass with the big smile who operates the Coral Lunch on Commercial Street . . . while husband John operates as a real estate broker. Mother taught her that cooking and sewing is important, and Peggy took the lesson to heart . . . loves to prepare food and has been doing it professionally since 15, when she took her first job as pantry girl at Carl's Inn, Yosemite Valley.

She was the National Hotel's chef for a time . . . also opened the dining room for Deer Creek Inn. Before that, she put in 17 months as diet cook at DeWitt Hospital. Once operated My Place, in the Savemore's present location.

Came here from Alturas, Modoc County, but has also lived in Plumas, where she made with skillet and skewer at the Engle Mine's cook house . . . when pinned down for her prize professional secret, she said, "Never, never use oil more than once for cooking or frying!" That's the reason, she says, why her dinners never have that "restaurant flavor."

The Mlinarichs live on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, in a home built by members of the family. Luckily, she says, there's been at least one carpenter in every generation . . . makes it nice . . . especially when the family is so close. "We fight some among ourselves," she smiles, "but, oh Lord, don't let anyone else fight with us!"

Explains that once, when the kids were squabbling, her mother gave each one a stick, and showed them how easy it was to break them individually. "Then Mother took a bunch of sticks, bound them together, and told us to try breaking the bundle. Of course, we couldn't do it. That should be symbolic of your lives, she said. Together, you are strong—separately, you can be snapped like these little sticks. Mother's words have become a tradition that we have never broken . . ."

Maybe the family stick-togetherness acts as a tonic or something . . . because every one is living yet, except Great-Great-Grandmother Alice May, who was G.-G.-G.-father's bride out in Sullivan County, Missouri, and one set of twins! The Bankuses are well represented in these parts. Besides Peggy, there's P. G., of Brown's Valley, with six girls and four boys. Ted Bankus of Grass Valley is in the forestry service, and a sister, Marie Miller, lives in Nevada City and is busy with her six children. Ora E. Bankus, of Woodland, has added two daughters to the clan . . . and sorry, but there isn't space in The Nugget for all the others . . . !

Peggy is member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the Cootiettes, and is going through the chairs of the Pocahontas organization.

There's inspiration in talking to Peggy . . . a real lift to living . . . to realize that there can be such family solidarity in these days of every man for himself . . . to think of grand old Lloyd loving life and smiling out at his growing family, his neighbors and his friends . . .

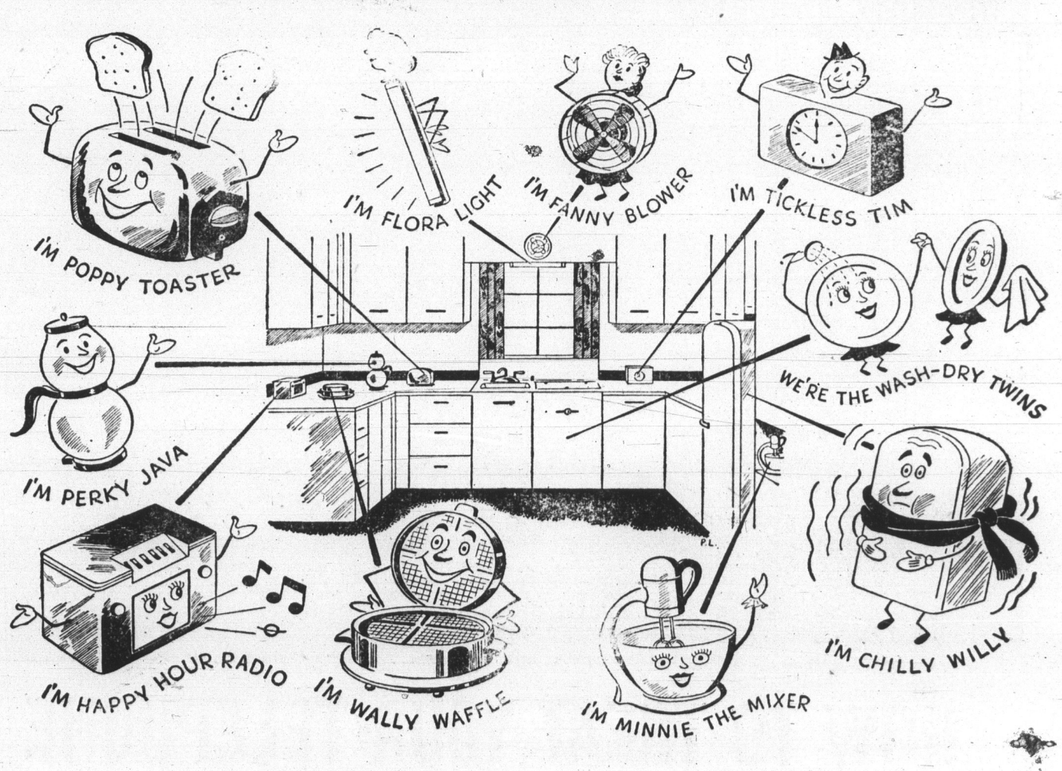
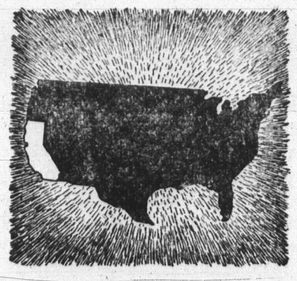
"We work for pennies a day!"

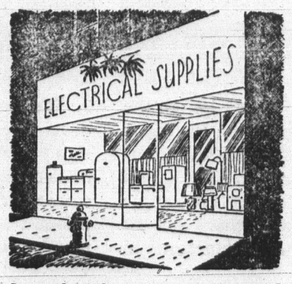


Wired help in your kitchen

Young homemakers of today can get a complete dinner on the table, from salad to dessert, in about half the time it took Mother twenty years ago. Of course, Mother did her work by hand, while Daughter has a staff of electric servants helping her. Low cost electricity, for example, runs a mixer for three hours for less than a penny. And the electric dishwasher washes and dries a daily quota of dishes for just a fraction more. Do you work in a brightly lighted kitchen, with the air swept clean of cooking fumes and completely staffed with wired help? Thousands of happy housewives save time and energy in an electric kitchen. Why not you?



One of the bright spots for electric appliance sales in the Nation is your part of California, where practically all of the homes and farms are wired for electricity. And serving you here are nearly 2,300 friendly and helpful electric appliance dealers.



Low electric rates mean good business for the electric dealers in your community. Last year, retail dealers sold 93,000 refrigerators, 73,000 washers, 30,000 vacuum cleaners, 11,000 home freezers, and 10,000 ironers in Northern and Central California.

For the record

LIVING COSTS UP

It takes many more dollars to buy what your family needs today. Living costs in San Francisco, for example, are now more than 51% higher than in 1923 and 87% higher than in 1933.

ELECTRIC COSTS DOWN

Despite the rising cost of living, the price of electricity has gone down and down. NINE major rate reductions made by this company since 1923—the latest in 1946—have cut the cost of household electricity more than 50%.

CLAUDE SCHWARTZ IN 'AGGRESSOR' NAVY

Claude H. Schwartz, Jr., airman, U. S. Navy, who is presently attached to Naval Headquarters, Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, will theoretically be in the navy of an imaginary aggressor power at war with the U. S. for the next 30 days.

The assignment is in connection with the joint army, navy and air force realistic war being conducted in the Caribbean area. Called Portrex, or Puerto Rican Exercises, this largest peacetime maneuver ever held in this hemisphere, will afford combat experience for nearly 80,000 men of the armed forces and will include the menace to the fleet by submarines and attacking aircraft, both land and carrier based.

The climax of the maneuver will come when invasion soldiers, sailors and airmen hurl an all-out attack at the defending aggressors on the island of Vieques. Ships and planes will blast the island beaches, paving the way for troop landings, while airmen parachute into the enemy stronghold.

TAILINGS

By Jim Towne

CONGRATULATIONS. Long live the newly formed Nevada City Junior Chamber of Commerce! Good luck to the proposed summer program. That's the idea, keep the teen-agers interested and occupied having fun. Idle boys and girls drift into trouble. Soon they are among the ranks of our alarming number of juvenile delinquents. Once a youngster steps into their midst it is so easy to keep rolling along the wrong road. But you are going to keep them on the right road, rolling along to good citizenship, with healthy activities and plenty of laughter. Have you ever noticed that the delinquent boy or girl has forgotten how to laugh? Cheerful laughter from a crowd of right thinking kids is something to listen to. It tells the world that the youngsters are o.k., thanks to the efforts of organizations like yours.

WHITEWASH. That is what citizenship seemed to have meant to a certain foreigner who became a British citizen then gave away scientific secrets. It is evident that our cousins across the ocean forgot the old saying about whitewashing black sheep. They are still black. There are such sheep in this country, foreign and domestic, and are up to all sorts of tricks. There is one in Oakland. He is beautifully whitewashed and has a way with unsuspecting dames and their hard earned dough. He is so pious and good and married to an evangelist. There is the Los Angeles temperance leader who ba-baed mazuma from susceptible followers. It pays to look under the whitewash, even to that on a gal's face.

BROTHERHOOD. We heard much on the subject the past week or so. It sounded nice coming in on the radio. It read well in the papers. But its actual practice seems to be a lot of bushwa. We know of a man who has no use for the Democrats, says they should have all died before they were born. They are so and sos. The wops are so and sos, so are the dagoes, wonder what is the difference between the latter two? We understand that his wife is contemplating some sort of a business venture. We also wonder if she will cater to the patronage of Democrats, Dagoes and Wops. We have met quite a few in the county and they have that silver that jingle-jangles in their pockets and bills bustin' out of their pocketbooks. Brotherhood? Oh, yeah, brother, if you have got the do-rae-me, step right into my little place of business, we spiders love to do foolish flies.

GIFT. A timid knock on the cabin door. To our "Come in," a child entered. She said, "I have brought you a present. It's the first wild flowers that I found." In her hand she held a cluster of dainty white flowers. The plant is unknown to us. Its buds are still bursting into bloom. The blossoms are small but lovely, like the little girl who thought of a busy grownup.

PLANS FOR RECREATION AREA AT BOWMAN LAKE AWAIT FEDERAL OKEY

Plans for developing recreation in the Bowman lake area of the Tahoe National Forest are awaiting approval of the chief forester, Washington, according to H. I. Snider, Tahoe district ranger.

The project, which Snider has worked on since his arrival here in 1948, includes proposed development of a centralized area near Bowman lake, adjoining private land suitable for a resort site, for winter sports activity.

The plan reserves the national forest land for public use in recreation for hikers, fishermen and hunters.

Most of the commercial development of resort sites and summer homes would be left to private capital.

Development of winter sports in the Bowman lake area cannot be realized until a standard road is constructed from the proposed site to highway 49 or 20, according to Snider.

One of the features of the plan, Snider points out, is the proposal to create a residential tract at Graniteville which would encourage permanent improvements. He said the present practice of squatting on the land is trespass when old mining activities are closed.

Ranger Snider said bills pending is congress will greatly assist development in this area if passed.

Lack of fund appropriations for campground improvements he said is one of the chief difficulties in developing full recreational possibilities on national forest lands.

The project also calls for all lakes in the vicinity of Bowman lake to be named and for a program of assisting the state in selecting lakes for fish planting.

Snider said the development encompasses the only area of its kind in California which has so many lakes and so much natural beauty. He added it is the only area of its kind about which such a comparatively few people have knowledge.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's Garage talking about the best spot to fish up at Green Lake.

"Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-pooh's" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years."

Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!"

From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

Nevada City Firemen Recommend - -

On the recommendation of the officers and members of the Nevada City Fire Department, the City Council has authorized a proposal to issue a $25,000 bond issue for improving the Department's equipment and this will be on the April 11th ballot.

The Firemen's recommendations were made after months of study of present conditions and with the benefit of years of experience in fire fighting. The amount necessary to place the Nevada City fire protection service in adequate condition at this time was determined to be as follows: $6,000 for extensions and improvements of the fire alarm system; $4,000 for repair and installation of new fire hydrants; and $15,000 for purchase of a fire truck.

Both the original city area and newly added territory have been mapped after careful survey and examination by Firemen and the contemplated improvements to the alarm system and fire hydrant system are shown on a large map.

The Firemen desire that every citizen have complete information concerning the need for the improvements. With the offered co-operation of the press, questions will be acknowledged and answered publicly in the newspapers. Inquiries are invited and persons who would like certain information are requested to communicate with the Firemen by using the attached form or by writing separate letters. They may be signed or unsigned, may criticize favorably or otherwise, but all will be welcomed and answered as soon as possible. Envelopes should be addressed to "Nevada City Fire Department" and mailed or left at either newspaper office.

HOUSE BILL 6000 WOULD PUT END TO GOLD LEASES

Gold mining, which has been supplanted by the tourist dollar as the basic economy of Nevada county will receive another jolt in House Bill 6000 which would classify mine block leasers as "employees" in the bill's extension of social security taxes and benefits.

Mine operators of this area believe passage of the legislation would end all current gold mining in this area. For several seasons nearly all production in the district has been by mine block leaders, who hold independent contracts with mine owners.

Leasing in general is the practice of working a specified part of the mine under contract, paying the company a royalty.

Social security administration is asking congress to declare the lessors employees and to collect social security taxes from companies.

ATHLETICS DROP FIRST PRACTICE GAME OF SEASON

With very few regular players the Nevada City Athletics were defeated 12 to 1 in the opening practice game Sunday afternoon in Sacramento by the Perinati Tigers of the Sacramento Winter League.

Two of the Athletics hits came in the ninth inning. Goldsberry singled, Fouyer walked and Haddy singled the lanky infielder for the Athletics' lone run.

Carl Fischer, who formerly had pitched for the Athletics, was on the mound for the Tigers.

Steve Pelayo, manager, has arranged a game for next Sunday with the La Fiesta team in William Land park, Sacramento.

The squad will leave from the Plaza at 10:30 Sunday morning.

Lookin' Around

create the powerful unity of the Golden State.

Nations, states, and counties are but the reflection of man's individual ambitions, fears, and prejudices. Why should be expect perfect harmony and peace in the world when hate, misunderstanding, prejudice, and that ever-present human cussedness is within our sight every day?

Lawyers draw their livelihood largely from disagreements between neighbors. Preachers must constantly implore tolerance, good will, and forgiveness. The press leans heavily on dissent and controversy because they are so elemental they make prime news. Public officials, merchants, and industrialists all know the need of "public relations" policies which favorably reflect their views and practices and overcome criticism and rebuke.

I am as guilty as any man for wading into fights. Sometimes for loyalty to a friend, sometimes for love of excitement or to escape sheer boredom, or because I am just too thick-headed to know any better. I've had the holiness knocked out of me, not by physical blows (which would have hurt less) but by final realization that my opponent was a decent honest guy with a heart of gold.

That about sums up my sermon for today. Brother, there's no point in you and me getting high minded and noble in our theories about how to get the world out of the helava fix it's in until we can patch up our differences over the back yard fence. We've got to throw off our unearned cloak of righteousness, take a long look at the other fellow's point of view, and dust off that Golden Rule motto that hangs over the mantle. So help me, I'll try, but brother, if you think that makes McKenney a chronic pacifist and compromiser, you don't know the heritage of the Irish.

W. A. CARLSON ASKS RETURN TO SCHOOL JOB

Walter A. Carlson, county superintendent of schools, has filed as a candidate for re-election to the office he has held for three successive terms.

During Carlson's incumbency the state legislature placed the office on a professional basis and only a holder of an administration credential from the state department of education may hold the office.

State support of education has greatly increased during his administration, and detailed reports are now required from the office.

The county superintendent approves all school warrants and last year Carlson's office processed 5,000 of the warrants.

Carlson, born and raised near Arcata, is a graduate of Humboldt state teachers college. He has been a resident of Nevada county for 25 years. He served as principal of Nevada City elementary school before his election to the county post.
